Financial Management Meeting

Labor Associated with Inventories

- Scanning technology training
- Untagged assets
- Disposals not previously advised
- Splitting and consolidating assets
- Transfer of ownership between departments
- Transfer of responsible employee
- Assets on loan
- Maneuvering secure facilities
- Potential inter/intra-departmental or inter/intra-divisional communication
How do we know how we did?

• The Departmental Summary Report
  FY18 Departmental Summary Report.pdf

• Sent to department after inventory finalized
  - DPA
  - Department Chair
  - Financial contact

• How long did it take?
• What values were confirmed?
• Do you have assets on loan? Are you in possession of the contract terms?
• How may adjustments were made during the inventory?
• What particular assets were disposed?
  - What was the reasoning?
How do we grow?

UW-Madison Journal Entry Documentation Guidelines
Types of Journal Entries Requiring Documentation

• JET (Journal Entry Tool) Journal Entries
  – Internal Billing (JRB) Journals – excluding large billing transactions (i.e. MDS, DoIT, FP&M, Purchasing Card)
  – Non-Salary Cost Transfer (JRT) Journals – excluding journals created through the Cost Transfer Tool
  – Revenue Accounting (JRR) Journals
  – Inter-Unit Transfer (IUJ) Journals
  – Budget (BD) Journals

• Manual Online SFS Journal Entries. This type of entry is processed directly in SFS. Access to this SFS page is restricted to specific users and departments on campus.

• Electronically Imported Journal Entries in SFS. This type of entry is processed directly in SFS. Access to this SFS page is restricted to specific users and departments on campus.
UW-Madison Journal Entry Documentation Guidelines

Dollar Threshold for Journal Entry Documentation
Any individual journal line that is $24.99 or less, does not require documentation. Every journal line $25.00 and above requires supporting documentation.

Proper Documentation
All journal entries, once posted, become part of our accounting records. Proper documentation should provide enough detail to satisfy an auditor, meaning it provides rationale for the entry and supports the dollar amount of the journal. Please, however, exclude or redact any sensitive data (SSN, birth dates, etc.). When in doubt whether a piece of information is considered sensitive/protected or not, please check with your supervisor. Please visit https://compliance.wisc.edu/hipaa and https://registrar.wisc.edu/ferpa-facstaff for more details.
Proper Documentation (Cont.)
The following documents may be used for journal entry support:

• Reports or Queries. This can include sub-system reports, SFS queries, or WISDM screen shots.
• Invoices. Copies of the internal or external invoice document.
• Internal work orders
• Check deposit forms or check stubs (redact bank account info)
• Supporting Schedules or Calculations. Examples of supporting schedules include Excel documents, reconciliations, or standalone reports from sub-systems (ex. QuickBooks, Great Plains).
• Other Documents. If specific e-mails, word documents provide a better understanding of the entry, you should attach those documents to the entry.
• Copies of Paper Forms. Copies of the following paper forms: Interdepartmental Billing Form, Receipt/Sales Credit Transfer Form, etc. that may include additional information or descriptions that are not included in the JET entry. Preferably a source document (invoice, receipt) is included to support amounts on the paper form.
